Café Yumm! is expanding into Idaho.

The growing Eugene-based regional restaurant chain plans to open a location Jan. 29 in Eagle, Idaho, just west of Boise, according to a statement from the company.

The Idaho restaurant will be the 23rd Café Yumm! location, but the first outside Oregon or Washington state.

Café Yumm! offers fresh foods like its organic beans and rice “Yumm! Bowls,” as well as salads, soups, chicken and turkey wraps and other items.

“When we opened our first restaurant in 1997, the hope was to someday bring Café Yumm! to other cities around the country,” restaurant co-founder and president Mark Beauchamp said in a statement. “It was our desire to introduce sustainable, healthy options that are delicious and unexpected to new communities. Opening our first restaurant in Idaho is a joyous milestone to reach.”

The Eagle location will be the first of three Café Yumm! restaurants planned for the greater Boise area.
